INSPIRED BY NATURE, DESIGNED BY ICONS

The Perigon unites a constellation of global design icons: OMA, Tara Bernerd & Partners, and Gustafson Porter + Bowman. Together they have magnified the building's majestic oceanfront setting to present the most desirable residential offering.

Jason Long, Lead Designer,
Partner in Charge at OMA

Office for Metropolitan Architecture (OMA)

Founded by Pritzker Prize winner Rem Koolhaas, one of the most accomplished architects of the 20th and 21st centuries, the international architectural firm OMA drew inspiration for The Perigon's façade and ingenious orientation from the site's horizon-stretching views.

Seemingly afloat above lush gardens, The Perigon's slender columns, soaring lines, and wraparound terraces are a true feat of design engineering, whereas its glass curves are a subtle nod to Miami Beach's rich Art Deco heritage. Within the interlocked towers, residences with floor-to-ceiling windows and ample outdoor space combine the intimacy of single-family villas with the vistas of high-rise living.

The Perigon's base is carved to create a dramatic entry along Collins Avenue

Drawing its name from the geometric term for an angle of 360 degrees, every aspect of The Perigon alludes to or reflects its spectacular wraparound views. The building is designed as a series of diamond-shaped towers that cascade toward the Atlantic Ocean and Biscayne Bay, maximizing water vistas and privacy on both sides of the property. The Perigon's sleek tiers create a façade that mimics the fluid form of the adjacent waters, promising a singular new landmark on the Miami Beach skyline.

The genius behind architectural landmarks around the globe since 1975, Rem Koolhaas's OMA is renowned for its intelligent designs. They bypass standard solutions to completely reinvent typologies and forge new possibilities in the realm of architectural design.

Tara Bernerd & Partners

Responding to OMA's eloquent, statement architecture by combining fresh, textured interiors with a considered, layered, and timeless aesthetic, The Perigon's interior design by Tara Bernerd & Partners redefines residential living in Miami Beach.

From the double-height lobby and sun-soaked social spaces to each distinct residence, The Perigon's sanctuary-like interiors are inspired by the natural palette of Miami Beach and its ethereal quality of light. Refined fabrics, tailored weaves, and glossy timbers add a touch of classic European influence, while original designs focus on detail and impeccable craftsmanship.

Interiors imbued with the luminosity
of Miami Beach

Creating enduring designs for an international portfolio of luxury hotels, private homes, and yachts, Tara Bernerd and her team seek to instill meaning, connection, and a feeling of authenticity in every project by curating a distinct sense of place.

Neil Porter, Co-founder of
Gustafson Porter + Bowman

Gustafson Porter + Bowman

Entrusted with some of the world's most significant monument settings since its founding in 1997, Gustafson Porter + Bowman has condensed Florida's varied natural beauty into The Perigon's landscaping.

Intrigued by the ephemeral nature of the site, a sleek band between ocean and bay, Gustafson Porter + Bowman has created a microcosm of Florida's landscapes through a series of interlinked habitats. Breeze-tousled coastal planting on the oceanfront transitions to a more tropical Everglades environment within.

A MATCHLESS SUITE OF RESORT-STYLE
AMENITIES

Offering all the seclusion of a remote island paradise in the heart of Miami Beach, The Perigon's expansive amenity suite has been envisaged as a sequence of elegant experiences for residents and their guests alone.

From the moment of arrival through the private gated entry, residents are transported into a more rarefied dimension. Whisked above, this otherworld reveals its many facets, from a swimming pool seemingly merging with the ocean to convivial dining spaces, complemented with white-glove service where every need is anticipated.

Exclusive to residents, the oceanfront restaurant Nota serves exceptional cuisine in Miami Beach's first ever private dining concept by a Michelin-starred chef, which can also be enjoyed throughout the hospitality suite of amenities including the Wine Room, the Breakfast Room, and the Sunrise Lounge. The Billiards Room, Screening Room, and Children's Lounge provide for all out-of-home leisure, while meeting rooms cater to business needs.

Wellness and recreation spaces are complete with a tranquil spa featuring spacious treatment rooms, infrared sauna, and therapeutic shower, a salon for personalized beauty services, and a state-of-the-art, high-impact Fitness Facility offering endless ocean views.
